Summary

Born in 1980 and currently resides in Tokyo. Graduated from Nihon University College of Art with a degree in Photography, then worked for DNP Media Create for 5 years photographing products and interiors. On a personal level, I have created work that explores the complex relationship between people and nature and the friction between them. Since starting my freelance career, I specialize in fine art and exhibition landscapes, architecture, and product photography. My skills range from photography to product photography, video production, development of self-hosted virtual tours, photographing art for digital archives, and photographing exhibition landscapes. As a freelancer who began by photographing the work of my artist and architect friends, I am committed to faithfully documenting their work, helping young talent gain recognition, and preserving valuable records for future generations to inherit.
